FIREMEN SAVED MOTHER AND BABES

They Hooked Up Scaling Ladders and Quickly Carried the Three of Them from Blazing Building.

nall children from the second floor of burning house in the Bronx to-day ith scaling ladders, and rescued a luffocating man from the basement after he had been severely burned. Joseph Hilbrink, whose family occuples the lower floor of the two-family house at No. 581 Union avenue, was in cellar with Fred Tiesner, of One Hundred and Fifty-second street and Union avenue, mixing paints preparalory to painting the house, when fire was discovered in a pile of rubbish at the other end of the room. his family out Tiesner remained behind to fight the flames.

Policeman Frank Grady had to run three blocks to the nearest fire-alarm box, and by the time engines and a hook and ladder truck arrived on the scene the flames had eaten through the lower floor and had enveloped the apper floor, occupied by Henry Hebner, wife and their two children.

A seream was heard at an unner window and the firemen put up a scaling ladder, hooking it over the window sill. Several firemen climbed into the and in a minute they were climbing back, carrying Mrs. Hebner and

The mother and children were passed flown the ladder safely to the ground. Hebner was able to get out by himself The family had been asleep and did not know the house was on fire.

When the fire was almost out some one thought of Tiesner and the firemen found him unconscious and suffocating in the cellar. In fighting the fire he had been severely burned about the head, face and hands and as he ran from the flames he fell, overcome by the smoke.

He was sent to Lebanon Hospital, where the doctors said it would be seviral weeks before he recovered. The louise was damaged about $2,000.

ALARM DELAYED

Lamplighter Saw Smoke and Notified Policeman, Who Said It Was Only a Chimney Ablaze -Loss $25,000.

The carelessness of two policemen is said to be responsible for a loss of $25,000 or more incurred by a fire which destroyed the top floors of the building at No. 163 Mercer street early to-day. The building is a four-story one and is rented by fur dealers. The first floor was occupied by Ernest Wagner & Co. On the second were the office and storerooms of Reiff Bros. The top floors were occupied by Lazarus Bros.

Robert Riley, a lamp lighter, while putting out the lights on his route, saw smoke rolling out of the windows of the top floor and ran two blocks before he found a policeman. Two of them were standing together, and when Riley told them of the fire, one of them looked up at the building and remarked: "Oh! it's only a chimney on fire. It doesn't amount to anything." Riley

The fire was in the Macdougal street recinct, and it was an hour later that Policeman Holland, of the Mercer street precinct, looked down from his post several blocks away and saw the clouds of smoke that were rolling out of the upper part of the building. He ran down to the corner and turned in an alarm.

By the time the Fire Department responded the upper part of the building was completely enveloped in flames. The fire was quickly subdued, but Chief Croker estimated the damage at $25,000 at least, and possibly more, because of the value of the furs that had been damaged in the building.

fire Which Destroyed Warehouses

Threatened Business District. LONDON, April 26.-Four of the ondon and Northwestern Railroad Company's warehouses, in the Minorles district of this city, were gutted by fire during the night. While the financial loss is only estimated at $500,000, the conflagration threatened at one period to spread to adjoining warehouses and factories filled with cork, gelatine, cartridges and similar highly combustible materials.

The historic Church of the Holy Trinity, famous for its connection with the Washington family, was for a time in considerable jeopardy, but the firemen from its roof managed to stem the approaching flames. les district of this city, were gutted by Mr. Harlem affirms that on Sept. 17.

1902, he was "one of a merry party" which arrived at the City Hall.

"I was either intoxicated or drugged."

By the affidavit, "but remember inning some paper—what I do not now. Afterward I was told it was a grage certificate."

The Minories lead southward toward the Tower of London and the Thames.

To the east of the Minories rises the old Church of the Holy Trinity, once belonging to an Abbey of Minoresses, or Sisters of the Order of St. Clare. The church contains several old monuments, on one of which are the arms, stars and stripes of the Washington family. Holy Trinity contains a ghast-ly relic, the still perfect head of the Duke of Surfolk, fatther of Lady Jane Grey, which was found preserveed in tannin in a small vault on the south of the altax.
